UK based JR Inkjet engages Jagged Peak to provide turnkey e-Fulfillment services for its US product distribution launch.

Tampa, Fla. - (Oct. 13, 2005) - Jagged Peak, Inc. (OTCBB: JGPK), a global provider of e-fulfillment and enterprise demand management solutions, today announced that UK based JR Inkjet has signed an agreement with the company to provide a turnkey e-fulfillment solution to support JR Inkjet's US product distribution launch.

Headquartered in Essex, England, JR Inkjet is Europe's largest manufacturer and distributor of "Do it your self" inkjet cartridge refill kits, replacement compatible cartridges and printer accessory products. JR Inkjet was the first company to invent and develop an inkjet refill system that worked across most brands of printers and cartridges using just one simple, inexpensive easy to use refill kit that refilled cartridges for a fraction of their retail price. JR Inkjet now markets and sells its products through direct and retail channels in over 40 countries worldwide.

To support JR Inkjet's US distribution initiative, Jagged Peak's turnkey solution will include product assembly, packaging, warehousing, order fulfillment, customer service and back office administrative support. In addition, Jagged Peak will provide the technology infrastructure, including utilization of its EDGE application platform, to automate the entire order fulfillment and inventory management processes.

Jagged Peak's EDGE v6i application is a totally web based solution that enables companies to automate demand and supply chain business processes as well as manage and execute order transactions in a real-time distributive environment.

"The fact that Jagged Peak could provide us with more than just warehousing and distribution services, but a total turnkey "end-to-end" solution that included the technology we needed to support our business made our decision to go with Jagged Peak easy," says Russell Segal, JR Inkjet's Managing Director of Worldwide Operations. "The ability to outsource our entire back office operation to Jagged Peak saved us the cost of investing in expensive infrastructure, not to mention the time to market advantages of having everything already in place".

"As a global company and industry leader, we are of course extremely pleased to have JR Inkjet as one of our clients" says Paul Demirdjian, Jagged Peak CEO. "JR Inkjet's business is further validation that there is a growing demand from global companies who recognize the benefits of an outsourced, turnkey e-fulfillment solution.
